This white 2022 GMC Sierra 1500 Elevation 4x4 with just over 112,000 kilometers is a rugged and stylish full-size pickup that strikes the perfect balance between capability, comfort, and bold design. Built for drivers who need a reliable truck that works as hard as they do—without sacrificing modern technology or presence—this Sierra offers serious value and performance wrapped in a clean, assertive package.

Under the hood, the Elevation trim typically comes powered by a proven 5.3L EcoTec3 V8 or an available 2.7L Turbo high-output engine, both engineered to deliver strong towing capacity, responsive acceleration, and dependable day-to-day performance. With the 10-speed automatic transmission (available with the V8), shifts are smooth and power delivery feels immediate, especially when climbing hills, passing on the highway, or pulling a trailer. Regardless of configuration, the 4x4 drivetrain ensures this Sierra is ready for all-season driving—whether that means icy roads, muddy trails, or worksite detours.

The Elevation trim makes a bold statement with its monochromatic exterior and distinctive black accents. The white paint pairs beautifully with the black grille, 20-inch black aluminum wheels, and body-colored bumpers, giving the truck a purposeful, athletic look that stands out without shouting for attention. LED headlights and C-shaped daytime running lights not only improve visibility but also add to the modern, upscale look. The bed is ready for real use, offering tie-downs, bed lighting, and a durable liner to handle cargo without compromise.

Inside, the Sierra Elevation offers a spacious and functional cabin designed for comfort and usability. Durable cloth seating, a large center console, and clever storage solutions throughout make this interior ideal for both daily use and long trips. There’s seating for up to five, and rear passengers enjoy generous legroom and space thanks to the Crew Cab configuration. Whether you’re commuting, carpooling, or hauling gear to the cottage, this truck handles it with ease.

At the heart of the tech suite is a large 13.4-inch touchscreen infotainment system with wireless Apple CarPlay and Android Auto, along with Bluetooth connectivity and
