This grey 2024 GMC Sierra 1500 Denali 4x4 with just over 30,000 kilometers and the exceptional 3.0L Duramax diesel engine is the perfect combination of power, luxury, and modern truck technology. Built for those who demand strength and sophistication in one refined package, this full-size pickup delivers a premium experience whether you're hauling, towing, commuting, or simply enjoying the road.

At the core of this Sierra is the highly regarded 3.0L Duramax inline-six turbo-diesel engine, delivering 305 horsepower and a massive 495 lb-ft of torque. It's paired with a 10-speed automatic transmission, engineered to offer smooth, responsive shifts whether you're merging onto the highway or pulling a trailer through tough terrain. The 4x4 system ensures confident traction in all conditions, while the Duramax engine's low-end torque makes it exceptionally capable for towing—rated up to 13,000 lbs when properly equipped. Despite all this power, the diesel powertrain is remarkably fuel-efficient, giving you long-distance range and reduced stops at the pump—especially important for those who drive regularly or haul often.

As a Denali, this Sierra is dressed to impress and built to pamper. The exterior in grey is complemented by signature Denali chrome accents, a bold grille, LED lighting, and 20-inch ultra-bright machined wheels. The design is upscale yet tough, projecting a sense of authority and capability whether parked curbside or headed off-road. The MultiPro tailgate adds incredible flexibility, functioning as a workbench, step, load stop, and more—all designed to make your day more productive.

Step inside and you're greeted by one of the most refined interiors in the segment. Premium perforated leather seats, real wood trim, and brushed aluminum accents create a cabin that rivals luxury SUVs. Both front seats are power-adjustable with heating, ventilation, and memory functions. The second row offers generous space and comfort, with heated outboard seats and clever storage options built right into the seatbacks.

The Denali's tech suite is equally impressive. A massive 13.4-inch touchscreen anchors the dash, equipped with Google Built-In, including Google Maps, Assistant, and
